Going forward we will be strengthening our service deliveries and capabilities in the Pacific Region as we invest strategically in the area, where Scan Global Logistics (SGL) has been present since 1998. This development is in the hands of Søren Madsen.

Søren Madsen is the new regional CEO of the Pacifics and is based in Sydney, Australia. He has spent the first part of 2019 traveling to see SGL offices and meet colleagues across the region, gaining a first-hand understanding of the needs of customers and their individual set ups throughout and remains committed to improving service quality, solutions and presence, and making life easier for local customers.

“The Pacific region holds some of the strongest economies globally and offer significant market opportunities for SGL. I look forward to expanding our Pacific footprint, developing the future partnership with our long-term existing customers today and welcoming new customers to reach out and discuss how we are able to help as well as strengthening their specific set up and solutions,” Søren Madsen says.
